A.B. LOVELL

Pythian Period Forty-Four.

The following lines are contributed to the columns of the Bourbon News, in commemoration of the forty-fourth anniversary of Pythianism. It is sincerely hoped that each Sir Knight in Paris will place these verses where he can refer to them often. A frequent perusal of them will be helpful in keeping alive his interest in the manifestations of Pythian fraternity on memorial day:

Now we'll strew flowers of benevolence,
On each Knight of Pythias' grave;
Not in the bombast of show or eloquence,

But in the spirit Master gave.
And as each Memorial Day comes 'round,

We'll take a firmer, better stand.
On Fraternity's ample, fruitful ground,
And fill the Lodge with Knights more grand.

How solemn and mysterious the things,
This day's services do contain:
Each sprig of Mint a fond memory brings,

And each Ode ends in soft refrain.
Truly blest are the mystic ties which bind
Hearts together in faith like ours,
And give the World the secret where to find
Friendship's trusting and its powers.

Place these caracants of Myrtle and Rose,
With tender, willing, helpful hands,
To show our deep, undying love for those

Who sleep—in this and other lands.
'Tis meet that we strew garlands of flowers,
Upon each Sir Knight's somber tomb.

Our humble gifts from Earth's sweetest bowers,
Now rich in bud and leaf and bloom.
These motionless sleepers so deep in ground,

Under their laurels dearly bought,
Truly have a name the wide World around,
Pythian—the rank which they sought,
But no more for their joy the Lodge fire gleams.

Nor to them sheds its cheering light,
Where Fraternity's mellow moonlight streams
Its flood of peace, so pure and bright.

Give them, dear brethren, your heartfelt praise,
For deeds of Knightly valor done;
Let us now our tri-colored banner raise,
To show them honor, ev'ry one.

About this emblem furling in the sky,
Kissed by Nature's varying breeze,
We'll proudly rear our castles strong and high,
Of homes and men, the Order's trees.

La Envoi:
May the grand old stars and stripes ever wave,
With their colors—red, blue and white—
In gentle folds o'er each Pythian's grave.

A true token of faith and might.
—Lewis Barnett Fretz, in "Bennie, The Pythian of Syracuse and Other Titles."

Work Illegal.

Under an amended ruling of the Court of Appeals it is illegal for a Magistrate to accept any work on the county roads, even though the work was under and through the road supervisor. The court holds the contract is with the county in effect, and that such ruling as had previously been laid down would open the door for graft, if the Fiscal Court should be dishonest.

Frank-Taylor.

Mr. Julian Frank and Miss Elizabeth Taylor were united in marriage at the home of the bride, near town, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Elder Carey E. Morgan, of the Christian church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Taylor, and a handsome young lady, while the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Frank, and one of our popular and prominent young business men.

They left after the ceremony to spend a few days in Louisville and will then visit the Eastern cities.

At Christian Church.

Elder Carey E. Morgan will be in his pulpit as usual Sunday at the Christian church. Morning subject, "The Friends of Jesus," at night "The Followers and Servants of Jesus."

A Judge Dies Suddenly.

While in his office at the court house Danville, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, talking to Jailer W. S. Fitzgerald, of Boyle county, County Judge Reed S. Nichols, aged fifty-four years, was stricken with apoplexy and died a few moments later in the arms of the jailer.

Young Lady Plays First.

Accepting the invitation of her preceptors to assist them in their effort to defeat their pupils, Miss Bessie Hayden, a student at State College, donned a baseball suit Wednesday and played eight fast and furious innings in the game of baseball between the faculty and the seniors.

Without the slightest exaggeration Miss Hayden's playing was the feature of the game, and before the game was half over she was cheered as she pulled down wild throws and hit the leather on the nose for two baggers.

Although the faculty met with defeat by the score of 8 to 4, had it not been for Miss Hayden's excellent playing, the score would have been much larger. Miss Hayden knows how to hit and pilfers bases like a veteran, instead of a college girl.

Is He Legally Dead.

John Armstrong, a negro legally hanged in Columbus, Texas, on April 19, is reported alive, his relatives having revived him after receiving the supposed corpse from the sheriff. The relatives have hurried Armstrong into hiding, according to apparently authentic information, but as the negro is officially dead, it has been stated by attorneys whose opinion carry some weight, that the State is powerless to enforce the original verdict of death. The case is unequalled and promises to attract general attention before the legal status of the negro is officially declared.

To My Patrons and Friends

I desire to announce to my patrons and friends and the public that the J. W. Holladay Carriage Company has formed a partnership with Edward Settle, of North Middletown, under the firm name of The Holladay & Settle Carriage Company, and will carry on as heretofore a general carriage making and repair business at the same old stand, at the rear of the courthouse. None but good mechanics will be employed and satisfaction guaranteed. Mr. Settle is an experienced and a practical carriage builder. I desire to thank all my old patrons and friends for past favors and ask a continuance of same in the future.

Respectfully,
JOHN W. HOLLADAY.

LUMAN & ADCOCK.

ELKS' BUILDING, - - - PARIS, KY.

ARE you getting Boys' Clothing with the best quality and style? Are you, for a fact, or is it doubtful? There is no use trying to convince yourself that you can buy as good clothing anywhere else as we handle; it is useless to try to save money over the prices we ask. To assume that you get the service or satisfaction from "cheaper" clothing is to argue that right is not might, that merit has not power, that value does not count.
